Letters From The People

Facts Are Wanted.

To the Editor, Journal-Miner.

Dear Sir: While much is being said by a practically unanimous press of Arizona on the general subject of joint statehood, should there not be more specific information as to New Mexico's over zealousness for jointure given to the vitally interested tax payers and voters of Arizona? Do not misunderstand either my meaning or purpose in asking this question. It is not asked for the purpose of criticising, but for the purpose of awakening, if possible, still further and deeper interest in a subject, which, to an ordinary mind, is of the greatest interest to Arizonians, both personally and financially, because of the far-reaching and everlasting outrageousness and unrighteousness of it. Many there are who are fully awake to the evil effects that would result from the consummation of this proposed outrage. On the other hand, many there are who are giving this momentous question little or no thought. Some, too, do not seem to care so very much about it, while others seem not to have heard anything of much importance regarding it. Some newspapers that are opposed to joint statehood treat the matter in a seemingly careless manner. One newspaper says, "There is no use in talking about why we are opposed to it. There are reasons enough and good reasons enough. . . but they are all embodied in one sentence: that we do not want the union." This sentence embodies a good conclusion for the voters of Arizona to arrive at, but what the voters of Arizona want, and what they need, in order to enable them to intelligently arrive at just such a conclusion, is the facts. Give them the facts, and no one need worry about the conclusions that will be arrived at on election day by the taxpayers and voters of Arizona. But keep on stating conclusions without something definite for the people to think about, and talk about, and they will have just the same weight with the voters of Arizona that your patent medicine advertisements have. The people nowadays insist upon being given the facts, and then forming their own conclusions. While it is not the purpose of this letter to go into facts, as that is the province of newspapers, and those who have the coming campaign in charge, might it not be beneficial to an educational campaign to enlighten the voters more especially on the subject of the underlying reasons why New Mexico is so zealous for joint statehood? "even any old kind congress is willing to give us," as one rabid new Mexico newspaper put it! Give the voters of Arizona the facts—the real reasons for New Mexico's burning desire for joint statehood, and the outrage can never be perpetrated. There are some apparently plausible reasons, from a New Mexican's standpoint, for jointure, being publicly advocated. But the real reasons are never put into print. They are only used by way of personal argument, and that freely. Unearth these reasons and expose them to the voters of Arizona, and you will then have the principal reasons why every man in Arizona should be, as well as the reasons why he will be, against this outrageous proposition. Publish these reasons—these facts—state them fully and clearly, and put them into the hands of the voters, and then they will know why it is for their interest to vote against joint statehood. The time has gone by when people do things for a woman's reason of "just because." Many who have no other reason for voting against joint statehood than that somebody else says: "We do not want the union," are quite likely to think that statehood of any kind would be a fine thing to have; and therefore, without fully knowing the true reasons why they should vote against it, will deliberately and conscientiously vote for it. Facts always awaken voters and taxpayers to a realization of their duty of seeing that they are properly registered, so that they can vote on election day.

AGATE.

JAMES CUSICK DIES SUDDENLY IN JEROME

Succumbs To Effects Of A Surgical Operation

Popular Pitcher Once Employed In Prescott

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

The sad news of the death of James Cusick reached this city from Jerome last evening, where he succumbed to an operation at 1:30 in the afternoon, in the United Verde Copper company's hospital. The operation, which was for some bowel complication, was performed earlier in the day, the patient never rallying from the shock.

The deceased was aged about 19 years, and a native of San Francisco, where his grandparents now reside. His friend and fellow-townsmen, W. J. Kelly, bookkeeper at the Burke hotel, left here early yesterday morning for Jerome at his request, and was at his bedside when death came.

He worked at the S. F. P. and P. shops in this city for a number of months before leaving for Jerome, where he had a position in the smelter, and achieved great popularity in both places among his fellow employees on account of his genial disposition, and his accomplishments as a baseball player, being considered among the best pitchers of any of the teams of the northern part of the territory, which brought him into prominence wherever he appeared on a diamond.

He played as pitcher for some time with the Diamond Jo team of this city, and later with McCabe, and was booked to appear here in the box with the Jerome team on Sunday last, but was prevented from coming here by the illness which resulted in his death.

REPORTED STRIKE OF RICH ORE NEAR TOWN

Ben Silverman's Find Near Four Mile House

Supposed Extension Of The Chronicle Ledge

News of a rich strike of gold recently made about a half mile southeast of the Four Mile house, reached here, when W. Fowler, the Montezuma street business man, in company with a mining expert, returned here on Sunday afternoon from the scene of the new find.

The rich ore was found on the surface of the ground some days ago by Ben Silverman, who kept the matter a secret until he had completed three locations along the croppings of the ledge, which is thought to be the same that passes through the Chronicle mine, where a rich and promising body of gold and copper ore was uncovered about a month ago, and which continues to improve in extent and value as depth is gained in the shaft.

A shaft has been started on the Silverman vein, and is now down to a depth of about 8 feet, the paystreak in the bottom showing an average width of 12 inches, in which gold is plainly visible to the naked eye.

Mr. Fowler has secured an interest in the locations with Mr. Silverman, and the necessary capital has already been subscribed to develop the ground by the sinking of shafts, the owners already having refused many flattering offers for an interest in the discovery.
